What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk Indicator

The risk indicator assumes that you will keep the Product for at least 5 years.

The actual risk may significantly differ if you redeem in the Product at an early stage and you may get back significantly less money. The Product includes materially significant liquidity risk, whether of a contractual nature or not. You will likely be able to cash in early; however, during the first 3 years from the start of your investment, you will pay high additional costs in the form of exit fees to cash in early. According to the Product's prospectus, the settlement period for redemption may take up to 24 months, and therefore you will likely not be able to sell your Product easily or you may have to sell it at a price that significantly affects how much you get back.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this Product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the Product will lose value because of movements in the markets. We have classified this Product as 6 out of 7, which is the second-highest risk class. This Product has been assigned to this risk class due to the absence of relevant historical data series and the absence of a benchmark with a sufficient historical data series.

This investment product does not include any protection from future market performance, so you could lose some or all of your investment. The Product does not hold any capital protection against potential market risk. The Product may enter into derivatives against potential credit or currency risk. The value of the investment in the Product may go down as well as up and the investor may lose some or all of their investment. However, you are not exposed to the risk of incurring any additional financial commitments or obligations.

Equity interests in companies may lose their value for unforeseen reasons. Debtors may become unable to meet their obligations, causing bonds issued by them or loans provided to them to lose some or all of their value, and you may lose your entire investment. The Product may be terminated and liquidated for economic, restructuring or legislative reasons. As a result of this possibility, you are not guaranteed that your investment will be able to continue for the entire recommended investment period. This may affect the expected return on your investment.

Other Risks Not Included in the Summary Risk Indicator

Risks arising from the selection of the Product's assets and financial instruments, which include all risks of the underlying assets. The risks are particularly associated with the possible failure to achieve the expected economic results of the companies concerned; risks of changes in the legal environment or regulatory changes; risks related to the impact of the economic cycle, etc. Furthermore, there is credit risk of companies that issued bonds in which the Product has invested, and additionally, certain other risks such as liquidity risk, settlement risk, and risk of non-linear dependence on the price of the underlying asset. These risks are further accompanied by concentration risk arising from low diversification of the Product's portfolio. Concentration risk lies in the possibility of investment failure when the invested funds are concentrated in a particular type of economic sector, country or region, or a particular type of assets. A detailed overview of risks relating to the Product is set out in the Product's prospectus.

Operational risk arising from deficiencies or failures of internal processes, human factor or external events.

Settlement risk is associated with the possibility that a transaction settlement may not take place as expected due to counterparty default or liquidity constraints. In such case, the investor may not receive their entire investment.
